RED SOX OUTFIELD RATED AS POOREST IN MAJOR LEAGUES

BY DAVIS J. WALSH New York, May 11 .- Boston fans, always loyal but beginning to become a trifle bored by the effort, have been afforded a strange and not altogether pleasant study in contrasts by the respective Red Sox outfields of today and ten years ago. Within that comparatively brief interval the art of outfielding has gone from the sublime to the ridiculous at Fenway Park.

Ten years ago the Boston Red Sox mustered what was probably the great est outfield of all time, from the stand point of general utility. The Red Sox outfield, in fact, is the worst in baseball from the standpoint of defensive ability, It is cumbersonie, awkward, and altogether inefficient and fly balls that Speaker, Lewis and Hooper would have caught standing still are now missed on the dead run.

The third member at present is Ernie Vache, who hit .354 in the Texas League last year. He, like Flagstead and Boone is far more valuable as a hitter than in the field.

Altogether, the trio could not have been more thoroughly mismated, particularly on the vast reaches of Fenway Park, where the spaces are open and men are either outfielders or become cross country runners by virtue of circumstances.

RAIN SUNDAY HALTS RESERVES_LAUBER CLOTHES PASTIMING

A downpour of rain Sunday noon prevented the Xenia Reserves and the Laubers Clothes of Dayton from staging their baseball game Sunday afternoon at Washington Park. Last season the Reserves booked the Clothier nine and rain forced the locals to cancel the game.

This is the first time this season that the locals have been idle as up until Sunday they have been having good weather. Willie McDonnell, who has been waiting patiently for a week for a chance to display his benders, will probably pitch next Sunday He has been keeping in good shape and has been pitching a bit for the Pennsylvania nine at Cincinnati, two weeks ago Saturday he twirled five innings and let the foe down with one hit.

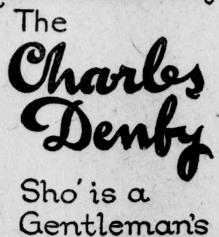

Manager Chambliss is making an effort to re-book the Lauber for next Sunday. In case he does the fans will see a mighty sweet ball team. Many of their players are loop in Dayton.

The determination of the girl to establish a life work in her home city was responded to by sympathetic hearts and under the guidance of Jennie Casseday the Louisville, Ky., Flower Mission came into being. The mission gained the attention of Frances Wilard, a W. C. T. U. leader and the national observance resulted, on Jennie Casseday's birthday, June 9.

BRITONS STIRRED BY PROHIBITION IN UNITED STATES

London, May 11.-While a few earnest-minded persons continue to hope for prohibition in England, and work for it, the great mass has no thought about prohibition except to gloat over the constant reports in English newspapers of its alleged failure in the

The prohibition question is kept alive by newspaper discussions. Lady Astor and Lord Astor being among the most consistent authors of letters to the newspapers on this subject.

English newspaper readers are given a considerable amount of mis-information about prohibition in the U. S., some of it undoubtedly merely misinformation and much of it undoubtedly inspired misinformation.

There are few defenders of American prohibition in England, yet the Star, a lewspaper founded by Quakers and still under Quaker influence and with the largest afternoon circulation in London, stated recently that in prohibition the United States "presents a nation trying to carry out a notable moral experiment.

It is impossible to say whether it was by design or not, but the following morning the reactionary organ, the Morning Post, carried an article by Sir A. Maurice Low, its Washington correspondent, which seemed to answer the Star's defense of prohibi-

"No one can take prohibition in America seriously," wrote Sir A. Maurce. "It is a farcical thing. But its efects are not farcical; they are serious and tragical. In consequence of prohibition, not only is the law, criminal and moral, being rewritten, but the whole attitude of the American people in regard to both law and morality is in the process of trans-

SOME LITTLE FINANCIER

ANNOUNCEMENT from Florida that Brother Bryan has decided to resign his position as "Booster" for a real estate firm was not received with very good grace by a numher of Democrats here who hoped that he had at last found a real career and that what was left of the party of Jefferson and Jackson might be reorganized without his assistance. Now they realize that their optimism was misplaced and such hopes as they entertained for the future have been

Many rumors are afloat here to account for his decision to quit. Of course it is suggested that he has made enough money to live comfortably for the rest of his life. It is said that he sold one property for well over $300,000 to a group of realtors who feared that his presence in their town might have a bad effect on certain "amusement" features which helped lure purchasers to their particular properties. We have no specific information upon this story and do not pretend to vouch for it.

It is our opinion that the recent avalanche of criticism that appeared in the press generally by the spectacle of a tormer Secretary of State and candidate for President selling his name and talents to real estate speculators was too much even for the great Commoner. He has never been able to accept criticism with a smile despite the unquestionable fact that no man in public in America during the last thirty years has had more experience in that particular line.

When he was running the State Department from the Chautauqua Circuit every correspondent in Washington know that he had virtually no knowledge of what was going on in the department. He appointed to the most responsible positions men who had no conception of their duties. The result was that the newspaper correspondents-at least some of them-made it their business to embarrass him by asking questions that he should have been able to answer but could not and when he failed some of them promptly supplied him with the answers to the questions they had

His conferences with the press developed into little more than squabbles. The criticism which invariably appeared in some of the papers next day was the source of genuine misery to him. On one occasion he attempted to bring about the dismissal of a correspondent of the largest Democratic paper in the country without success.

He kept a batch of prohibition pledges upon his desk and was always ready to offer them to newspaper men-in lieu of news. The same courtesies were offered to ambassadors and ministers from foreign countries but there is no record of any acceptances except in the case of certain "Deserving Democrats" who sought his assistance in the great game of job hunting which was the principal sport in Washington during those days.

We suspect criticism decided his course not however, until he had put aside a comfortable profit.

Herb Hoover is certainly out of all touch with the trend of the times. He actually intimates that nations should save for the future.-Marion, Ohio Star. What's the use when they can borrow from the U.S.?

Probably one reason why the youth runs so wild nowadays is because the woodshed has given place to the garage.-Canton, Ohio, News. And the house slipper is unknown since no one stays at home.

All the trains into Xenia were running more or less late Friday as a result of the many washouts along the lines.

Auerhamer, of Washington, boasts of being the great, great grandson of the famous Paul Revere, whose ride through to Lexington is one of the greatest events in American history. The little fellow is fond of horses, but now they are of the toy variety. While Boston was celebrating the 150th anniversary of the famous ride the youngster observed the occasion by looking over his stable of hobby horses.

Famous "Half Woman" Marries

Perhaps one of the strangest weddings ever witnessed took place in Los Angeles, when Miss Gabrielle Gunther, formerly a resident of Germany and konwn throughout the world's circus side shows as the "half woman," because she was born legless, was married to John de Fuller, a New York business man of normal physique. The Rev. W. L. Barth, of Venice, Cal., performed the ceremony. The others shown are Gary Grey, Mrs. Viola Wild and H. W. McGeary, witnesses.

He Hadn't Seen Show for 18 Years

A New York City policeman, who admitted in court he hadn't been inside a theatre for eighteen years, (and he certainly couldn't have seen some of Broadway's latest productions,) went into a Brooklyn cabaret and arrested Frankie Lloyd, a performer, on the grounds that she appeared in shockingly abbreviated costume. So Frankie wore the costume in police court and the judge postponed the case for two weeks, by which time the styles will have changed, anyway. There was a S. R. O. sign on the court room when Miss Lloyd did her stuff.

Waits in Dark

Mrs. Martha E. Hayden, mother of William D. Shepherd, who is held in Chicago awaiting trial in the death of William Nelson McClintock, millionaire orphan, and others, insists her son is innocent. According to report, Mrs. Hayden is rapidly losing her eyesight, but she has offered to go to him if her presence will aid him. She sits in darkness awaiting the return of her son, who greatly resembles her.

Ban on Bishop

Bishop William Montgomery Brown, of Arkansas, who was unfrocked by the Protestant Episcopal House of Bishops, following his trial last year on charges of heresy, came to New York to speak at St. Mark's Church in the Bouwerie on the subject, "Are Heresy Trials of Any Use?" Bishop Manning, of New York, sent a letter to Dr. Guthrie, pastor of the church, "forbidding" him to allow Dr. Brown to speak. At first Dr. Guthrie said Dr. Brown would be allowed to talk in the church, but as the time neared for Dr. Brown to make the address, Dr. Guthrie announced that "out of courtesy to Bishop Manning, Bishop Brown will not plead his cause in St. Mark's Church."

Sentenced to Die

ANTHONY PANTANO

Anthony J. Pantano, New York youth, faces the electric chair for the second time, following the third trial for the murder of two bank messengers in a $43,000 robbery in Brooklyn, in February, 1924. His first sentence was reversed and his second trial resulted in disagreement of the jury. Unless he obtains a stay of sentence he will die at Sing Sing prison during the

Royal Children Suffer Hardships

Above are pictured the sons and daughters of the ex-Empress Zita, now living in Spain. The eight children of the late Kaiser Karl have seen many hardships in their young lives, despite the fact that their father was once a king. They are now compelled to live practically on charity.

New Safety First at Sea Radio

Photo shows Donita Castlegrand as she signals to the bridge of the S. S. Orbita to lower away—and the Orbita's radio-equipped lifeboat takes to the water. This lifeboat is the first of its kind and is a new departure in safety first at sea. There is a specially trained crew to operate the portable radio which, in case of accident to the steamer, would at all times be able to maintain communication with rescue ships.

Japanese Girls Spurn Cold

The annual swimming tournament in the Sumida River, which runs through Tokio, in Japan, was held during the coldest period of the year, yet the girls participated in the various events, won prizes, and appeared to enjoy it.

BY MACK SAUER

HIS ONION QUEEN (Delerium No. 7)

IT seems that a few months before the grandmother kicked the old oaken bucken her doctor had advised her to keep still, which she had been doing without ever being caught by the prohibition officials. Morning Glory took the mash from the still and mashed it.

It was two weeks since they arrived in Jamestown and Morning Glory was beginning to wilt, fading from a jolly 200 to a mere 198. So they decided to be on their way to the onion ranch in

Arriving at the Big Four depot in Xenia, Hick turned to his Onion Queen and ejaculated:

"Shall I engage a drawing room, dear?" "Certainly not,' responded Morning Glory, taking a deep breath,

"I really don't care for a drawing room as I do so little drawing. I can draw the line but not a picture. Why not engage a wash room? I'd like to clean up on the train.'

Morning Glory was far from being one of the Four Hundred but when she got on the Big Four she certainly was feeling her onions. Everything went along well but the train. It's speed seemed to be limited.

Arriving in Cincinnati, Morning Glory noticed quite a number of houses with blinds drawn as though the owners were out of the city. So she put one foot out in the aisle and chewed tobacco madly The Gazette will not be respon- so to the for more than one incorrect through. so as to attract the attention of the conductor when he came

> "Take that tobacco out of your mouth and put your foot in," said the conductor. Which Morning Glory did and then she asked him about the seemingly closed houses.

> "Why, those are the homes of Cincinnati's former police force. Not to be outdone in style, most of them went south for quite a number of months and are sojourning in Atlanta. Some of them will be away more than a year."

"Open the window, I want to throw out my chest," said Hick, who was squeezed in the seat by his two hundred pound bride. (To Be Continued)

Don Weaver, says the sooner His Onion Queen comes to an end the better for all concerned. Frankly, he doesn't like it. He likes this page though, and uses it daily. Read all of the ads this evening. Phone ads tomorrow.

Physical Culture

In autointoxication constipation allows the intestinal contents to remain in the passage much longer than normally, which further aids in the development of unnatural products, and in the absorption of these products. A very prominent symptom is headaches, also dizziness. There may be sleeplessness or a drowsy, sleepy feeling, and 2 general lack of energy. Nervousness, irritability, and fretfulness are prominent in some cases. Not infrequently the skin is more or less covered with eruptions and there may be fever. Vague aches and pains throughout the body are described by many. In overcoming this condition, which might easily lead to disease of almost any or all organs of the body, it is advisable to make a change in the diet. Usually it is best to fast, so that the intestinal tract can be thoroughly cleansed. At the beginning of this fast it may be well to give a saline laxative to sweep the toxins as quickly as possible, or the enema may be used in conjunction with drinking large quantities of water. This will remove the substances in the intestinal tract and at the same time allow the body to throw into this tract especially from the liver, considerable quantities of already absorbed poisons.

The drinking of large quantities of water markedly increases the activity of the kidneys and these carry off large quantities of toxins. Sweat baths, and air and friction baths increase the skin activity so that many poisons are thrown off in this way. Deep breathing where there is an abundance of pure air allows the escape of a considerable amount of poisons through the lungs. -After the fast may be taken the fruit and vegetable diet, or the milk diet may be used to great advantage. A Miss Johnson had a most pronounced case of constipation and autotoxemia, as her bowels did not move at any time without a laxative or enema and she had several times passed eight or ten days without bowel action. Her skin was extremely sallow and the rings under her eyes were deep and black. Her entire body gave off a foul odor. The treatment suggested above was applied and within ten weeks the bowels were acting normally.

FAYETTE COUNTIAN

Otterbein Home, located in Warren County, near Lebanon, O., has just received a deed to a farm of 3871/2 acres, valued at $50,000 located at the edge of New Holland, O., according to an announcement of trustees of the home. The home is operated under the jurisdiction of the United Brethern Churches.

The donors. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Persinger, of Washington, C. H., presented the farm to the home after they had made several visits to the institution and had become interested in the work being done. Neither is a member of the United Brethern Church.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, May 11 .- Boston fans, always loyal but beginning to become a trifle bored by the effort, have been afforded a strange and not altogether pleasant study in contrasts by the respective Red Sox outfields of today and ten years ago. Within that comparatively brief interval the art of outfielding has gone from the sublime to the ridiculous at Fenway Park.

Ten years ago the Boston Red Sox mustered what was probably the great est outfield of all time, from the stand point of general utility. The Speaker-Lewis-Hooper combination could field run, hit and throw; in fact, every- CLEVELAND ____ 12 thing that makes a ball player great. The third member at present is Ernie Vache, who hit .354 in the Texas League last year. He, like Flagstead and Boone is far more valuable as a hitter than in the field.

Altogether, the trio could not have been more thoroughly mismated, particularly on the vast reaches of Fenway Park, where the spaces are open and mer are either outfielders or become cross country runners by vir-

ROPE MAKERS WIN FROM PENNSY TEAM IN SATURDAY LOOP

The Hooven and Allison baseball nine showed a reversal of last week's form and gave the Pennsylvania Railroad team an unexpected beating by a score of 9 to 2 in the Saturday Afternoon League games Saturday at Washington Park.

BRITONS STIRRED BY PROHIBITION IN UNITED STATES

London, May 11.-While a few earnest-minded persons continue to hope for prohibition in England, and work for it, the great mass has no thought about prohibition except to gloat over the constant reports in English newspapers of its alleged failure in the United States.

The prohibition question is kept alive by newspaper discussions, Lady Astor and Lord Astor being among the most consistent authors of letters to the newspapers on this subject.

English newspaper readers are given a considerable amount of mis-information about prohibition in the U. S., some of it undoubtedly merely misinformation and much of it undoubtedly inspired misinformation. There are few defenders of American prohibition in England, yet the Star, a ewspaper founded by Quakers and still under Quaker influence and with the largest afternoon circulation in London, stated recently that in prohibition the United States "presents a nation trying to carry out a notable moral experiment.'

It is impossible to say whether it was by design or not, but the followng morning the reactionary organ, Morning Post, carried an article by Sir A. Maurice Low, its Washington correspondent, which seemed to answer the Star's defense of prohibi-

"No one can take prohibition in America seriously," wrote Sir A. Maurice. "It is a farcical thing. But its effects are not farcical; they are serious and tragical. In consequence of prohibition, not only is the law, criminal and moral, being rewritten, but the whole attitude of the American people in regard to both law and morality is in the process of trans-

SOME LITTLE FINANCIER

A NNOUNCEMENT from Florida that Brother Bryan has decided to resign his position as "Booster" for a real estate firm was not received with very good grace by a number of Democrats here who hoped that he had at last found a real career and that what was left of the party of Jefferson and Jackson might be reorganized without his assistance. Now they realize that their optimism was misplaced and such hopes as they entertained for the future have been blighted.

Many rumors are affoat here to account for his decision to quit. Of course it is suggested that he has made enough money to live comfortably for the rest of-his life. It is said that he sold one property for well over $300,000 to a group of realtors who feared that his presence in their town might have a bad effect on certain "amusement" features which helped lure purchasers to their particular properties. We have no specific information upon this story and do not pretend to vouch for it.

It is our opinion that the recent avalanche of criticism that appeared in the press generally by the spectacle of a tormer Secretary of State and candidate for President selling his name and talents to real estate speculators was too much even for the great Commoner. He has never been able to accept criticism with a smile despite the unquestionable fact that no man in public in America during the last thirty years has had more experience in that particular

When he was running the State Department from the Chautauqua Circuit every correspondent in Washington knew that he had virtually no knowledge of what was going on in the department. He appointed to the most responsible positions men who had no conception of their duties. The result was that the newspaper correspondents-at least some of them-made it their business to embarrass him by asking questions that he should have been able to answer but could not and when he failed some of them promptly supplied him with the answers to the questions they had

His conferences with the press developed into little more than squabbles. The criticism which invariably appeared in some of the papers next day was the source of genuine misery to him. On one occasion he attempted to bring about the dismissal of a correspondent of the largest Democratic paper in the country without success.

He kept a batch of prohibition pledges upon his desk and was always ready to offer them to newspaper men-in lieu of news. The same courtesies were offered to ambassadors and ministers from foreign countries but there is no record of any acceptances except in the case of certain "Deserving Democrats" who sought his assistance in the great game of job hunting which was the principal sport in Washington during those days.

We suspect criticism decided his course not however. until he had put aside a comfortable profit.

Like a father of his children, talked of living things and growing. We spent the day with blossoms, stood about and talked them Saw the orchards pink with beauty, and the meadows white with clover,

And he taught me little secrets of the peonies and roses. As one mother to another all that she has learned discloses. Taught me how and when to plant

Oh, I don't know how to tell it, but I felt my soul expanding, Kirby I was standing,

And I thought my little garden could be lovelier and brighter, That my roses might grow redder and ing soda. Now, in another bowl, my peonies grow whiter, And my life a little finer if I recog-

Mosaic Memorial for Washington

This remarkable mosaic in tiles, in the form of a shield, bearing the Washington coat of arms and an excellent likeness of George Washington at an early period of the Revolution, was made for one of a group of buildings surrounding the Washington Memorial Chapel at Valley Forge, Pa., by Nicola Ascenzo, of New York.

Ellis Island May Be Closed

Ellis Island at New York may soon be closed by the Labor Department as an immigration post. Plans to examine all aliens abroad, as a relief of the great congestion at American ports, is being considered by the Government. Under the tentative plan the American consulates abroad would be the clearing stations for aliens. Photo is an aerial view of Ellis Island.

Paul Revere Ready to Ride Again

Paul Revere, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Auerhamer, of Washington, boasts of being the great, great grandson of the famous Paul Revere, whose ride through to Lexington is one of the greatest events in American history. The little fellow is fond of horses, but now they are of the toy variety. While Boston was celebrating the 150th anniversary of the famous ride the youngster observed the occasion by looking over his stable of hobby horses.

Famous "Half Woman" Marries

Perhaps one of the strangest weddings ever witnessed took place in Los Angeles, when Miss Gabrielle Gunther, formerly a resident of Germany and konwn throughout the world's circus side shows as the "half woman," because she was born legless, was married to John de Fuller, a New York business man of normal physique. The Rev. W. L. Barth, of Venice, Cal., performed the ceremony. The others shown are Gary Grey, Mrs. Viola Wild and H. W. McGeary, witnesses.

He Hadn't Seen Show for 18 Years

A New York City policeman, who admitted in court he hadn't been inside a theatre for eighteen years, (and he certainly couldn't have seen some of Broadway's latest productions,) went into a Brooklyn cabaret and arrested Frankie Lloyd, a performer, on the grounds that she appeared in shockingly abbreviated costume. So Frankie wore the costume in police court and the judge postponed the case for two weeks, by which time the styles will have changed, anyway. There was a S. R. O. sign on the court room when Miss Lloyd did her stuff.

Waits in Dark

Mrs. Martha E. Hayden, mother of William D. Shepberd, who is held in Chicago awaiting trial in the death of William Nelson McClintock, millionaire orphan, and others, insists her son is innocent. According to report, Mrs. Hayden is rapidly losing her eyesight, but she has offered to go to him if her presence will aid him. She sits in darkness awaiting the return of her son, who greatly resembles her.

Ban on Bishop

Bishop William Montgomery Brown, of Arkansas, who was unfrocked by the Protestant Episcopal House of Bishops, following his trial last year on charges of hor-esy, came to New York to speak at St. Mark's Church in the Bouwerie on the subject, "Are Heresy Trials of Any Use?" Bishop Manning, of New York, sent a letter to Dr. Guthrie, pastor of the church, "forbidding" him to allow Dr. Brown to speak. At first Dr. Guthrie said Dr. Brown would be allowed to talk in the church, but as the time neared for Dr. Brown to make the address, Dr. Guthrie announced that "out of courtesy to Bishop Manning, Bishop Brown will not plead his cause in St. Mark's Church."

Sentenced to Die

Anthony J. Pantano, New York youth, faces the electric chair for the second time, following this third trial for the murder of two bank messengers in a $43,000 robbery in Brooklyn, in February, 1924. His first sentence was reversed and his second trial resulted in disagreement of the jury. Unless he obtains a stay of sentence he will die at Sing Sing prison during the week of June 6.

"NOT POSSIBLE TO CLASSIFY"

BY MACK SAUER

HIS ONION QUEEN (Delerium No. 7)

IT seems that a few months before the grandmother kicked the old oaken bucken her doctor had advised her to keep still, which she had been doing without ever being caught by the prohibition officials. Morning Glory took the mash from the still and mashed it.

It was two weeks since they arrived in Jamestown and Morning Glory was beginning to wilt, fading from a jolly 200 to a mere 198. So they decided to be on their way to the onion ranch in Nevada.

Arriving at the Big Four depot in Xenia, Hick turned to his Onion Queen and ejaculated:

"Shall I engage a drawing room, dear?" "Certainly not,' responded Morning Glory, taking a deep breath,

"I really don't care for a drawing room as I do so little drawing. I can draw the line but not a picture. Why not engage a wash room? I'd like to clean up on the train."

Morning Glory was far from being one of the Four Hundred but when she got on the Big Four she certainly was feeling her onions. Everything went along well but the train. It's speed seemed to be limited.

Arriving in Cincinnati, Morning Glory noticed quite a number of houses with blinds drawn as though the owners were out of the city. So she put one foot out in the aisle and chewed tobacco madly so as to attract the attention of the conductor when he came

"Take that tobacco out of your mouth and put your foot in," said the conductor. Which Morning Glory did and then she asked him about the seemingly closed houses.

"Why, those are the homes of Cincinnati's former police force. Not to be outdone in style, most of them went south for quite a number of months and are sojourning in Atlanta. Some of them will be away more than a year.'

who was squeezed in the seat by his two hundred pound bride. (To Be Continued) Don Weaver, says the sooner His Onion Queen comes to an end

"Open the window, I want to throw out my chest," said Hick,

MONEY

AT WORK Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

Poorhouses are monuments erected to the folly of those who forget to 73 save.

"I am going to start saving my money next month," is one of the phrases which is sending many men to the poorhouses. It would be perfectly all right for them to utter the phrase if they would actually start saving next month, but they do not. Because of forgetfulness and "put ting it off," people neglect to accumulate the surplus and thereby help

STENOGRAPHER NAMED

Bucyrus. May 11-Miss Mary K. Streib has theen appointed cour stenographer of Crawford County by Judge J. Walter Wright, to succeed A. B. Bradstock, who resigns to accept a position as salesman. The appointment is for a 3-year term and carries a salary of $150 a month.

In autointoxication constipation allows the intestinal contents to remain in the passage much longer than normally, which further aids in the development of unnatural products, and in the absorption of these products. A very prominent symptom is headaches, also dizziness. There may be sleeplessness or a drowsy, sleepy feeling, and 2 general lack of energy. Nervousness, irritability, and fretfulness are prominent in some cases.

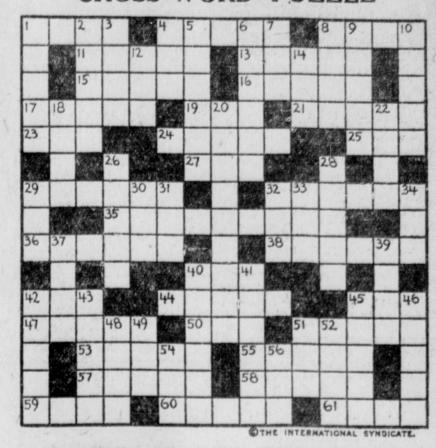

Not infrequently the skin is more or less covered with eruptions and there may be fever. Vague aches and pains throughout the body are described by many.

In overcoming this condition, which might easily lead to disease of almost any or all organs of the body, it is advisable to make a change in the diet. Usually it is best to fast, so that the intestinal tract can be thoroughly cleansed. At the beginning of this fast it may be well to give a saline laxative to sweep the toxins as quickly as possible, or the enema may be used in conjunction with drinking large quantities of water. This will remove the substances in the intestinal tract and at the same time allow the body to throw into this tract especially from the liver, considerable quantities of already absorbed poisons.

The drinking of large quantities of water markedly increases the activity of the kidneys and these carry off large quantities of toxins. Sweat baths, and air and friction baths increase the skin activity so that many poisons are thrown off in this way. Deep breathing where there is an abundance of pure air allows the escape of a considerable amount of poisons through the lungs. ~
